- a) Method and frequency of valuation of the financial instruments in the Client's portfolio: PI measures the financial instruments and funds in the Client's portfolio as follows:
- Financial instruments traded on regulated financial instruments markets are valued at the last known closing price;

- Financial instruments not traded or traded only irregularly on regulated markets at a qualified estimate corresponding to financial market practices;
- Value of bonds and other financial debt instruments is increased by deferred income;
- Securities and holdings in collective investment entities are valued according to the last known net value of assets published by the manager or administrator of the collective investment entity concerned;
- Funds in a current account at the nominal value of the account balance and funds in a term deposit, according to the nominal value of the deposit increased by accrued interest;
- Financial instruments and funds denominated in a foreign currency are converted to the local currency at the relevant exchange rate published by the European Central Bank.

PI values the financial instruments and funds in the Client's portfolio every working day.

c) Portfolio performance comparison methods:

PARTNERS INVESTMENTS determines past portfolio performance based on the type of financial instruments, the Client's investment objectives and according to the following rules:

- Performance for a specific period of time is determined by comparing the portfolio values at the beginning and end of the period;
- Such a period of time may be a number of whole months (three months, twelve months, sixty months) or from when portfolio management services start to be provided;
- Performance is expressed as an absolute value for periods less than one year and per annum (p.a.) for periods exceeding one year;
- Performance is expressed either in the currency of the country in which PI provides services or in another currency, provided it corresponds to the Client's type of portfolio financial instruments and investment objectives;
- Performance includes all fees PI charges for portfolio management except its entry and administrative (e.g. exit) fees and all withholding taxes. PI may also determine "model performance" for several portfolios with the same strategy or average performance for several portfolios with different investment strategies.

PI may compare portfolio performance with other financial instruments or financial indices where it is meaningful in view of the portfolio investment strategy

General information about the types of financial instruments that may be included in a Client's portfolio are specified in "Financial Instrument Information".

PI may also include in the Client's portfolio, on a discretionary basis and in compliance with a suitable investment strategy recommended to the Client, financial instruments not accepted for trading on any regulated financial instrument market, with no or limited liquidity and/or with highly volatile market values. PARTNERS INVESTMENTS does not include any derivatives in a Client's portfolio.

More detailed information about specific financial instruments that may be included in the Client's portfolio may be also contained in the investment strategy recommended to the Client.

- e) The objective sought in management of a Client's portfolio is to increase the value of their assets through an investment strategy suitable for the Client and recommended to them, which corresponds to the Client's investment objectives at a degree of risk adequate to their knowledge and experience in investing and their risk profile. PI manages a Client's portfolio in compliance with the authorization granted by the Client at their discretion. The Client leaves individual investment decisions up to PI and PI manages the Client's portfolio without consulting them.

More detailed information about specific objectives of management of the Client's portfolio, the level of risks factored in and restrictions, if any, of PI's discretion may be also provided in the investment strategy recommended to the Client.

C. PROTECTION OF FINANCIAL INSTRUMENTS AND THE CLIENT'S FUNDS

PI is authorized to deposit and keep the financial instruments and funds of Clients ("Clients' assets") in an account or accounts opened with a third party. In selecting and determining the third party and concluding agreements on account maintenance, administration and deposit of financial instruments, PI shall proceed with due diligence while considering and factoring in the guarantee system for protecting Clients' assets, which would be applied were the third party to become insolvent.

In doing so, PI shall consider and regularly check the third party's market expertise and credibility, as well as generally applicable legislation and market practices related to the holding of Clients' assets which could adversely affect Clients' rights.

PARTNERS INVESTMENTS arranges the following organizational preconditions for protection of Clients' assets:

- a) PI's maintaining of accounts so that it is possible at any time to distinguish assets held for one Client from assets held for any other Client, as well as from its own assets;
- b) PI's maintaining of accounts to ensure their accuracy and for them above all to equal the financial instruments and funds held for Clients, while such accounts must be suitable for use as control records (so-called audit trails);
- c) Regularly reconciliation by PI of its internal accounts with the accounts and records of any third parties holding these assets;
- d) Adoption of measures by PI to ensure Clients' assets held by third parties (financial instruments kept by a custodian or funds kept by a bank) are separated from both PI's assets and those of the third party;
- e) Adoption of measures by PI to protect assets should PI become insolvent;
- f) Adoption of measures by PI preventing abuse or loss of Clients' assets;

Safekeeping of Clients' financial instruments. If custody of financial instruments for the account of a third party is subject to special legislation and oversight in the state where PI plans to deposit the Client's financial instruments with a third party, it will not be allowed to deposit them in this state with such a person unless the person is subject to such legislation and supervision.

PI may not deposit financial instruments kept on a Client's account with a third party in a Non-Member State where legal regulations do not regulate the holding and safekeeping of financial instruments on the account of a third party, unless one of the conditions below is met:

PARTNERS INVESTMENTS, o.c.p., a.s.,

Einsteinova 24, 851 01 Bratislava - mestská časť Petržalka, Slovakia, CRN: 52 413 179, TIN: 2121011475

Section Sa, File No 6941/B, Tel.: +359 2 907 2190, e-mail: info@partnersinvestments.bg

- The nature of financial instruments or investment services related thereto requires the financial instruments to be deposited with a third party in a non-Member State,
- Where financial instruments are kept on the account of a professional Client and the Client requests in writing that PI deposit the financial instruments with a third party in a non-Member State.

PI will inform Clients that their financial instruments and funds are registered in a foreign register of securities in the US, a non-EU country, and that the relationship is governed by the laws of the non-Member State. Therefore, PI expressly draws Clients' attention to the fact that their rights associated with financial instruments and funds may differ.

Management of Clients' funds. PI deposits Clients' funds exclusively in accounts maintained by any of the following entities:

- Central banks;
- Credit institutions and foreign credit institutions authorized to operate by legislation of Member States;
- Banks authorized to operate in a non-Member State;
- Qualified financial market funds in compliance with the law.

PI is liable to Clients, in compliance with legislation of general application, for the culpable breach of its fiduciary duty to act with due professional care in the selection and designation of a third party with whom the Client's assets will be deposited, as well as for regularly verifying the expertise and trustworthiness of this third party on the market, for actions it takes, and for the consequences were it to become insolvent.

The third party with whom PI deposits a Client's assets may keep the same in a summary client account in compliance with legislation of general application or market practices usual on the capital market concerned. In such a case, PI shall also secure separate custody of the Client's assets registered by PI. PI emphasizes that a third party's safekeeping of a Client's assets in summary accounts is associated with the risk of temporary unavailability of the Client's assets. PI mitigates the risk by applying the procedures described in the first clause of this Article.

Use of Clients' financial instruments. PI is not permitted to use the Client's financial instruments on its own account or a third-party account unless both of the following requirements are met:

- a) The Client has granted prior express consent to the use of their financial instruments in compliance with determined terms and conditions as it should be clearly evidenced in writing by the Client's signature,

b) Use of the Client's financial instruments is restricted according to special terms and conditions to which the Client has consented.

PI is not permitted to use, on its own account or a third-party account, the Client's financial instruments kept in the Client's name in a summary account maintained by a third party unless the following requirements are met:

- a) Each Client whose financial instruments are kept in a summary account has granted their prior express consent to the use of their financial instruments in compliance with determined conditions as it is clearly evidenced in writing by the Client's signature; or
- b) PI has systems and control mechanisms in place to ensure that only those financial instruments belonging to Clients who have given their prior express consent in accordance with sub-clause (a) are used in this way (i.e. unambiguous records).

PI has adopted measures preventing unauthorized use of Clients' financial instruments (for instance, monitoring of sufficient client funds to settle a trade, possibility to borrow financial instruments).

Rules for receipt of collateral (security interests) from Clients

PI shall not conclude any security agreements for transfer of title to financial instruments with non-professional clients to secure or cover current, future, actual, contingent, or other obligations of non-professional Clients;

PI may conclude security agreements for transfer of title to financial instruments only with professional Clients or eligible counterparties.

D. EXECUTION VENUES

A list of execution venues contains only the venues allowing to obtain on a consistent basis the best possible outcome for the execution of client orders concerning individual types of financial instruments. PI will regularly review and update listed execution venues in order to achieve the best possible outcomes in executing orders.

PI is authorized, where it complies with the Instruction Execution Strategy at PI's discretion, to add or delete any specific execution venue.

The current list of execution venues is available at PI's website.

Such costs and fees may be also specified in other documents that are part of the contractual relationship between PI and the Client.

PI provides Clients with the following information about costs and related fees:

PI publishes preliminary and additional information about the costs and fees charged to Clients as a summary of the following:

- a) All costs and related fees charged by PI, or other parties where a Client has been directed to them, for an investment service(s) and/or ancillary services provided to the Client,
- b) All costs and associated fees related to the creation and management of financial instruments.

For the purposes of sub-clause (a), third party payments received by PI in connection with investment services provided to the Client are listed individually and aggregate costs and fees are added up and expressed both as a cash amount and as a percentage.

Where any part of the total costs and fees is to be settled, or is expressed, in a foreign currency, PI will state the amount in both the relevant foreign currency and euro based on the daily exchange rate published by the European Central Bank. PI will also provide information about any action affecting payments or other performance.

Where PI provides the Client with investment or ancillary services jointly with another securities dealer, each of these securities dealers will provide the Client with information about the costs associated with the investment and/or ancillary services. Where PI recommends or offers its Clients services provided by other securities dealers, it will merge the costs and fees for its services with the costs and fees for services provided by such other securities dealers.

When calculating costs and fees on a preliminary basis, PI uses actually incurred costs as a substitute for expected costs and fees. Where no actual costs are available, PI makes reasonable estimates of such costs. PI will review preliminary assumptions based on subsequent experiences and amend the assumptions if necessary.

In providing investment services, PI submits to its Clients an example showing a cumulative effect of costs on the return rate. Such examples are submitted both on a preliminary basis and additionally. PI ensures that such examples meet the following requirements:

- a) they should show the effect of total costs and fees on the return rate;
- b) They should show all expected increases in or fluctuations of costs; and
- c) They should be accompanied by a description.

In connection with trading on financial markets and depending on the terms and conditions of contractual relationships with specific intermediaries, custodians, eligible counterparties and third parties, PI may collect differences in fees, quantity discounts, discounts and rebates on charged fees, which are billed once or regularly. The said increments, such as differences in fees, interest, rebates and discounts related to main or ancillary investment services, except portfolio management and investment advice, are income for the securities dealer and intended to improve the quality of the relevant service provided to the Client.

In connection with trading on financial markets, PI has concluded business contracts and makes use, as a securities dealer, of the services provided by counterparties as part of investment services. The fees for the services provided by counterparties and billed by PI to Clients may differ from the fees billed by the counterparties concerned. In providing the investment service involving the portfolio management and independent investment advice, PI neither receives nor retains any fees, commissions or other financial and non-monetary benefits paid or provided by any third party or a person acting on behalf of a third party in connection with provision of the service to Clients. Fees, commissions or other monetary payments paid or provided to PI by any third party or a person acting on its behalf, within the provision of independent investment advice or portfolio management, shall be transferred by PI to the relevant Client in full and without undue delay after receiving them.

PI may not receive non-monetary benefits for providing investment advice on an independent basis or for performing an investment portfolio management service except for minor non-monetary benefits:

- a) Which have been communicated to the Client prior to provision of the investment service concerned;

PI charges fees in compliance with the current Fees Schedule. Fees are collected from the funds determined for provision of the financial or ancillary service, or obtained through its provision. PI's remuneration consists, in particular, of fees for keeping an investment account, for arranging purchase (or sale), reallocation, transfer, transmission of financial instruments, for custody and administration of securities, and fees for portfolio management depending on the agreed investment strategy and how much the Client has invested.

PI does not receive any remuneration, discount, or non-monetary benefit for routing orders of Clients to a specific trading or execution venue as it would contradict the conflict-of-interest requirements or rules applicable to receipt and settlement of fees, commissions or non-monetary benefits.

F. FURTHER PRE-CONTRACTUAL INFORMATION

- a) PI has provided the Client well in advance of signing a contract with the terms and conditions specified in the contract and its annexes, including this pre-contract information pursuant to Sections 73d and 73p (3) of the Securities Act. The Client declares that they have been duly briefed on the terms of the contract and on all the information stated therein and in all the annexes thereof, including this pre-contractual information, in compliance with Sections 73d and 73p (3) of the Securities Act, in witness whereof they attach their signature to the contract.
- b) In compliance with Section 73p (3) of the Securities ACT, PI provides the Client with the following information about the strategy for executing orders on foreign markets: PI accepts a binding execution order from the Client and either forwards it to a foreign broker or PI gives execution orders, at its own discretion, to a foreign broker (PI does not execute the Client's order). The foreign broker automatically forwards the Client's binding execution order to the relevant foreign market (a stock exchange or ECN). The foreign broker takes into account the best execution principle, i.e. they ensure that the Client achieves the best possible outcome and route their order to the foreign market with the highest liquidity, best price, lowest cost and the highest speed and probability of executing it. When placing a binding order, the Client is entitled to determine its forwarding directly to the foreign market designated by the Client. PI draws attention to the fact that such an instruction may prevent PI from achieving the best possible outcome for the Client on the executed order. PI provides the Client with information about the strategy applied for executing orders by publishing it on the PARTNERS INVESTMENTS website.
- c) In compliance with Section 73p (3) of the Securities ACT, PI provides the Client with the following information about the strategy for execution of the orders on the domestic market: PI adopts measures in order to execute the Client's binding orders so that it may achieve the best possible outcome for the Client while factoring in the following criteria: price, costs associated with execution of the order, speed and likelihood of execution of the binding order, transaction settlement, extent and nature and/or other features from executing the binding order. In executing binding orders placed by the Client, PI assesses the importance of individual criteria factoring in the following:

- Whether the Client is a professional or non-professional client;
- Nature of the Client's binding order,
- Characterization of the financial instruments mentioned in the binding order,
- Characterization of the execution venue to which the binding order may be forwarded.

PI considers the most important criterion for achieving the best possible outcome based on the Client's binding order to be the price of the financial instrument and the amount of costs associated with the execution of the order and incurred by the Client, including fees for the execution venue, clearing and settlement fees and any fees paid to third parties involved in execution of the order.

- There is only one operator of a regulated securities market, i.e. a multilateral trading system, in the Slovak Republic - Burza cenných papierov v Bratislave, a.s. Following the order execution strategy, PI will execute binding orders placed by the Client in respect of all financial instruments (shares, bonds, and units) through a member of Burza cenných papierov v Bratislave, a.s. PI is authorized to place binding orders at the Client's request even with an OTC market outside the regulated market, such as the multilateral trading system of Burza cenných papierov v Bratislave, a.s. in relation to all the Client's trades.
- Where the Client places a specific instruction for execution of a binding order or concerning its specific nature, PI shall execute the binding order in strict compliance with the instruction and, in doing so, PI is deemed to have complied with the obligation to achieve the best possible outcome for the Client. PI hereby expressly draws the Client's attention to the fact that their specific instructions may prevent PI from proceeding in compliance with its order execution strategy aimed at achieving the best possible order execution outcome in relation to that specific instruction.

By signing the contract, the Client confirms that PI has provided them with relevant information about its order execution strategy and the Client grants PI explicit consent thereto, as well as explicit consent to execute all of the Client's trades on the OTC market.

The information about the order execution strategy can be found at PI's website.

PARTNERS INVESTMENTS o.c.p., a.s ("PI") provides Clients with investment and ancillary services associated with the following financial instruments:

- a) Shares and other securities with similar rights as those associated with shares ("Shares"),
- b) Bonds and other debt securities ("Bonds"),
- c) Money market instruments,
- d) Securities or holdings in collective investment entities ("Funds").

1. DESCRIPTION OF THE MOST SIGNIFICANT RISKS ASSOCIATED WITH FINANCIAL INSTRUMENTS

Currency risk relates to changes in the value of a financial instrument expressed in a single currency between the exchange rate of that currency and the currency in which the instrument is denominated. This risk may occur, for instance, where the investor invests with the local currency in financial instruments denominated in foreign currencies and compares the value of the investment using the local currency.

Volatility risk is a market risk involving fluctuations in the values of financial instruments occurring mainly due to changes in conditions on the financial markets on which financial instruments are traded. This risk may have significant consequences especially when measuring financial instruments over shorter periods of time.

Liquidity risk is the risk of a reduced possibility to sell a financial instrument quickly enough at the market price. The significance of this risk depends on the market on which the financial instrument is traded, on the number of participants in this market, on the number of holders or potential holders of the instrument, on the value of the required sales volume and on the financial instrument itself. Where the financial instrument is not traded on any regulated market or where, for instance, it has not been issued through a public offering, its liquidity may be significantly limited.

Settlement risk is the risk associated with the possibility that the counterparty within a trade or the one who ensures its settlement will not fulfill its obligations on time and in full. The risk may be expressed as a failure to pay the purchase price or deliver the purchased financial instrument. Country risk is associated primarily with political, economical or legal (such as tax related) risks existing in the country or region concerned. This risk may be more significant on so-called developing markets (for instance, in non-OECD countries).

Legal risk is associated with the presence of legal uncertainty due to inconsistency between a national jurisdiction and functioning of financial markets. An inadequate system of regulation and monitoring of financial markets may result in problems within enforcement of an investor's rights arising from holding securities or financial instruments.

Inflation risk is associated with inflation (price level increase), i.e. from devaluation of invested funds;

2. GENERAL DESCRIPTION OF THE NATURE OF FINANCIAL INSTRUMENTS AND RELATED SPECIFIC RISKS

a) Shares are securities giving their holder the right to vote at the general meeting, participate in the management of the joint-stock company concerned and in its profits and liquidation balance upon its dissolution.

Income from investing in shares can be achieved in the form of a dividend or a change in the market price of the share. The payment and amount of dividends vary and depend on the results achieved by the joint-stock company and decisions adopted at the general meeting of shareholders. A change in the market value of shares usually has a significant impact on the total return from investing in shares.

Volatility risk is more significant with shares than with other financial instruments

Special equity risk is the risk of a change in the value of a share due to a change in the overall situation on equity markets or in perception of a specific stock (joint stock company) among market participants. In critical situations (bankruptcy of a company for instance), this risk may lead to the loss of the entire investment. Special equity risk is usually higher with shares of smaller companies and vice versa.

b) Bonds are the securities whose holder is the creditor of the person/entity who has issued them (issuer, debtor). The issuer of a bond obliges the issuer to pay the nominal value to its holder on the specified maturity date and to pay the coupon rate according to predefined conditions.

The return on investments into bonds consists of coupon income and capital income, if any. While coupon income is usually known in advance, capital income may accrue as a difference between the purchase and selling prices of the bond, i.e. the price upon its issue and at maturity. The total bond yield may be calculated accurately in advance, provided that the holder holds the bond until its maturity (yield to maturity).

There are several types of bonds. The issuer may be government, a bank, or involve municipal and corporate bonds. Mortgage bonds are a special type of bond backed by real estate.

Bonds are usually traded on financial market, usually in high volumes, and outside regulated markets. Therefore, the liquidity risk is significantly higher, in particular, among investors with lower investments volumes.

Special credit risk means the risk of change in the value of a bond due to a change in the credit standing of the issuer and their perception among market participants. In critical situations (such as if the issuer declares bankruptcy), this risk may result in failure by the issuer to comply with their obligations and thus lose the entire investment. The significance level of this risk may be expressed through a rating for instance.

Ratings are assigned by renowned rating agencies. The credit risk related to issuers with high ratings (for instance AAA) is significantly lower than the risk associated with an issuer with a lower rating (BB for instance) or no rating at all.

Special interest rate risk means the risk of change in the value of a bond due to a change in interest rates on the financial market. As long as market interest rates rise, bond values drop and vice versa.

- c) Money market instruments are the financial instruments usually traded on money markets. Maturities of money market instruments are shorter and they usually do not exceed one year. Money market instruments include treasury notes and certificates of deposits. The degree of a majority of risks is usually lower as they are money market instruments compared to bonds.
- d) Funds are financial instruments of so called collective investing. Collective investing is collection and management of funds from a number of individual investors and subsequent collective investing of those funds into securities and other financial instruments.

The return on investments into Funds is variable and cannot be determined in advance because it depends on returns from individual Financial Instruments held by the Fund concerned. A part of the achieved income may be paid out as dividends depending of the Fund's rules (Fund Rules and Prospectus).

There are several basic types of Funds, depending on the focus of the investment strategy and the method of investment. For example, they can be:

- a. Money market funds - usually invested only in money market instruments and short-term bonds with an average maturity (or duration) of up to one year;
- b. Bond funds - usually invested in bonds and other fixed income instruments with average duration exceeding one year and the share of these investments significantly limited (max. 10%);
- c. Equity funds - usually invested in a majority of assets (at least 67%), shares and other equity investments;

- d. Mixed funds - represent various combinations of the above specified Funds;
- e. Funds of funds - usually invest a majority of assets (at least 67%) in other Funds;
- f. Real estate funds - invest in real estate and other financial instruments whose income is derived from real estate.
- g. Exchange Traded fund (ETF): a financial instrument consisting of stock representing a holding in a specialized fund. The Fund manages the portfolio of consisting cash and financial instruments through which it aims to copy as precisely as possible the performance and dividend yield on specific indices and commodities exchanges. Since ETFs take the form of shares, they are valued and traded, unlike mutual funds, during the entire period of stock exchange trading and the investor is able to purchase or sell the entire ETF portfolio in one ETF in a regular manner;

Investments in Funds are associated with general and specific risks related to individual financial instruments. Due to the nature of those instruments, intended to limit and diversify risk exposures, levels of individual risks related to Funds are usually lower or more diversified compared to individual financial instruments.

Specific risks are associated with different legal forms of the Funds and varying levels of their regulation. The highest protection level, and thus the lowest risk level, is associated with open funds regulated at the level of Member States of the European Union (so called UCITS). The level of regulation, investor right protection and risk exposure diversification level may be significantly lower in respect of the Funds registered in other countries (in particular outside OECD).

Specific risks are associated in particular with closed funds (investors are not entitled to unit redemption) or special funds (investing in venture capital or real estate).

A special regime also governs investing in Funds intended for qualified or professional investors, which require certain knowledge and experience on the part of the Client. Legal requirements and restrictions are not that strict as those applicable to standard European Funds. Qualified investor funds can invest in a wide range of financial and non-financial assets (e.g. real estate, receivables, loans) and can take the form of mutual funds and investment funds with their own legal personalities.

Investment strategies associated with Model Portfolios of PI - Conservative Investor and Dynamic Investor are associated with the following risks:

- Fluctuations of invested amounts and related returns,
- Macroeconomic development in the Eurozone,
- Regulatory changes, if any, in the European Economic Area,

- Interest rate risk.

The Strategy applies to all Clients regardless of their category (non-professional client, professional client or eligible counterparty) and all financial instruments in respect of which PI is authorized to provide investment services to Clients.

PI will not apply the Strategy in the following situations:

- Where a Client places an order along with an express instruction concerning, for instance, the venue for executing of the order, in which case PI will proceed in compliance with the express instruction;
- Concerning express instructions, the Client understands that their express instructions may prevent PI from taking the measures suggested and adopted by it in order to achieve the best possible outcome within the execution of orders, factoring in the parameters contained therein,

4. RULES FOR EXECUTION OF CLIENTS' ORDERS

In executing orders on the Client's account, PI undertakes to take all necessary steps to secure the best possible outcome of executed order (so called Best Execution) on the Client's account.

In executing orders on the Client's account, PI decides on the relative importance of the criteria set out in Clause 5 of the Strategy, where the relative importance of the criterion will be determined from available market information and PI's expertise and experience gained on financial markets in order for PI to comply with Best Execution when executing orders on the Client's account.

In executing orders, PI analyzes available execution venues to identify the venues allowing the best possible outcome to be achieved results on a permanent basis. In addition, PI factors in the criteria set out in Clause 5 of the Strategy in selecting the venue for execution of an order.

Should the Client request compliance with an express instruction and PI executes the Client's order pursuant to their express instructions, PI's obligation to comply with the Best Execution principle shall be deemed to be complied with.

5. BEST EXECUTION CRITERIA

To execute an order with the best possible outcome, PI factors in the criteria set out by the Act. The Client's request for execution of an express instruction is the only exception.

In executing orders, PI assesses primarily the following criteria:

- Price of the financial instrument;
- Cost to execute the order;
- Time necessary to execute an order;
- Likelihood the order will be executed and settlement conditions;

PARTNERS INVESTMENTS, o.c.p., a.s.,

- Order volume and type; and/or
- Other factors important for order execution.

PI will determine the relative importance of individual criteria when it executes the Client's order. The relative importance of those criteria is determined from the following:

- The Client's characteristics (categorized as professional or non-professional client),
- Order characteristics (the scope of obligations is adjusted according to the Client's express instructions);
- Characteristics of the financial instrument subject to the order;
- Characteristics of the venue where the order may be executed.

In determining the relative importance of individual criteria, PI considers all criteria and reasonable points of view applicable to executing the Client's orders, with the aim of achieving the best possible outcome for them. The best execution of orders is assessed primarily in view of the price of the financial instrument, costs to execute the order, market and other third-party fees, speed of order execution and financial instrument liquidity in view of the execution venue.

As concerns non-professional Clients, the best possible outcome is determined based on the price of the financial instrument and all costs paid by the Client, including the fees paid to the third parties involved in order execution, financial instrument liquidity and speed of order execution in view of the execution venue.

As concerns professional Clients, PI also assesses other factors in addition to price and costs in determining the best possible outcome of execution of an order placed by a professional Client.

Where PI executes the Client's order related to financial instruments traded only on OTC markets, PI will apply as the priority criterion the likelihood of execution and settlement of the Client's order. Under certain order execution circumstances, PI may determine, at its discretion and in respect of certain Clients, orders, financial instruments or execution venues, and other important criteria, in particular, the terms and conditions applicable to order settlement, order volume and type, and/or other indirect costs necessary in the given case to execute the Client's order.

PI shall not be liable for failure to execute a Client's order and/or for not applying maximum efforts to comply with the obligations under the Strategy where no execution or settlement takes place because of the Client's breach of their obligations.

In assessing the best possible outcome, PI will not compare the results achieved through application of the Strategy with what could have been achieved for the Client from another company based on the application of that company's strategy or other structuring of fees and commissions.

6. CHOICE OF PLACE OF EXECUTION FOR INDIVIDUAL FINANCIAL INSTRUMENTS

Rules for executing an order include information about various venues for execution of orders on the Client's account where PI may execute them. PI's listed venues for executing Clients' orders are primarily the markets where PI may execute orders for Clients with the best possible outcome on a permanent basis. The current list of execution venues is available at PI's website.

PI may make use of either of the following markets to execute Clients' orders:

- Regulated markets,
- Multilateral trading facilities (MTFs);
- Organized trading facilities (OTFs);
- Systematic internalisers;
- Market operators;
- Other liquidity providers;
- Persons performing similar activities in a non-Member State.

Except where an express instruction has been placed by the Client, PI executes orders and chooses a relevant execution venue as follows:

- In executing specific orders, PI considers specific factors on the market concerned and those connected with relevant financial instruments, and particularly low-liquidity markets;
- For some financial instruments PI will execute orders only at one execution venue;
- Where PI selects a specific execution venue, it will send an instruction to execute an order to that venue and leave it there until partial or final settlement, expiry or termination of the instruction;
- PI will act as an execution venue where, based on the assessment of the criteria specified in Clause 5 of the Strategy, PI concludes that the result achieved in this manner will be the best possible outcome from executing the order;
- The Client's order may be executed outside a regulated market, OTF or MTF, provided there is compliance with the obligation to execute the order under the best conditions. PI may execute an order outside a regulated market, OTF or MTF only if the Client has given PI their prior express consent.
- When the financial instruments are traded on one or several regulated markets to which PI has no direct access, PI will forward an order to a third party (through whom PI enters such regulated markets) while considering the criteria specified in Clause 5 of the Strategy, provided that PI has concluded the outcome from executing the order in this manner will lead to the best possible order execution outcome for the Client;

- PI may forward an order to a third party where PI has concluded that third party represents the best execution venue for the Client.

PI does not receive any remuneration, discount, or non-financial benefit for directing instructions of Clients to a specific execution venue as it would contradict the conflict-of-interest requirements or rules applicable to receipt and settlement of fees, commissions or non-monetary benefits.

After executing an order or transaction on the Client's account, PI shall inform the Client about the venue of order execution. Regular reports shall detail the price, costs, time and likelihood of orders executed on individual financial instruments.

PI shall draw up and publish once a year, for each type of financial instrument, a summary of information collected from the five execution venues with the best performance in terms of their annual trading volumes where Clients' orders were executed in the preceding year and the data on order execution quality.

7. ORDER EXECUTION METHODS

Unless PI has received an express instruction from the Client, PI shall execute orders in one of the following ways:

- Order execution with PI being the execution venue or at the execution venue to which PI has direct access,
- Where PI has no direct access to an execution venue, it will forward an order to a third party who will execute it at the execution venue.

8. EXPRESS INSTRUCTION SUBMITTED BY THE CLIENT

Should the Client submit an express instruction, PI will execute the order in compliance therewith. PI hereby informs the Client that, after receiving their express instruction:

- PI will not be able to secure the best possible order execution outcome through application of the Strategy's rules where PI will execute orders in compliance with the Client's express instruction;
- PI cannot guarantee execution of the order and completion of the transaction;
- The outcome achieved after executing the order in this way, based on the Client's express instruction, will be deemed the best possible.

Where the Client's express instruction concerns only a part of the order (e.g. the execution venue), PI will apply the Strategy to those parts of the order not affected by the Client's express instruction, provided that the nature of the transaction allows it.

9. ASSESSMENT AND STRATEGY MODIFICATION

PI regularly monitors and assesses the Strategy in order to identify and remove drawbacks. In particular, PI regularly assesses the efficiency of the Strategy and whether the execution venues included in it allow the best possible outcomes to be achieved for Clients and to determine whether the measures applicable to execution of orders should be modified. The Strategy is reviewed at least once a year and/or when there are fundamental changes affecting PI's ability to achieve the best possible outcomes for its Clients in executing their orders. PI shall inform its Clients about each substantial modification of the Strategy by publishing the updated version at PI's website.

10. INFORMATION OBLIGATIONS

PI shall prove to its Clients, at their request, that PI has executed their orders in compliance with the Strategy and to prove compliance with that obligation to the National Bank of Slovakia at its request. Where PI executes orders for non-professional Clients, it shall provide such Clients with a summary of the relevant policy, focusing on the total costs incurred by them.

- 7.2 PI publishes on its website the current version of the Complaint Procedure and accurate, clear and current information about complaint settlement procedures available to both complainants and internet users.

8. OUT-OF-COURT SETTLEMENT OF COMPLAINTS

- 8.1 Non-professional clients may use an online dispute resolution platform ("DRP") to settle their complaints in the language chosen by them. Non-professional clients may make use of the DRP available at: <http://ec.europa.eu/consumers/odr/> as an alternative to settle their complaints. To submit their complaints, non-professional clients would complete an electronic complaint form at the DRP. The information submitted by them must be sufficient to determine the competent alternative dispute resolution entity. Non-professional clients may attach documents supporting their complaints.

- 8.2 Another of out-of-court dispute resolution method is alternative resolving of a dispute between a non-professional consumer Client and the Company by an alternative dispute resolution entity. Pursuant to Section 24 (1) (a) of Act 391/2015 on alternative consumer dispute resolution and amendment of certain laws (the "Act"), the Ministry of Economy of the Slovak Republic publishes at <http://www.economy.gov.sk/obchod/ochrana-spotrebitela/alternativne-riesenie-spotrebitelskych-sporov-1/zoznam-subjektov-alternativneho-riesenia-spotrebitelskych-sporov> a list of alternative dispute resolution entities. A mediator is a natural person registered in the List of Mediators maintained by the Ministry of Justice of the Slovak Republic. The Ministry of Justice of the Slovak Republic publishes the List of Mediators at <https://www.justice.gov.sk/Stranky/Nase-sluzby/Civilne-pravo/Mediatori/Uvod.aspx>. Mediation, basic principles, organization and the outcome of mediation are governed by Act 420/2004 on mediation and on the amendment of certain laws, as amended.

9. FINAL PROVISIONS

- 9.1 Should there be any changes in legislation or the need for a more efficient complaint settlement process to be put in place, PI is entitled to unilaterally amend this Complaint Procedure at any time.
- 9.2 PI will publish all written amendments to the Complaint Procedure on the Company's website form prior to the effective date thereof, but no later than on their effective date.

Could a conflict of interests not be avoided during the provision of investment services, ancillary services or performance of investment activities, the Client shall then be notified of the nature and source of the conflict prior to the provision of such service or performance of an activity, and in the case of the provision or performance thereof, the Client's interests shall be prioritized over the Company's interests, and, in the event of a conflict of interests, equal and fair treatment of all Clients must be ensured.

- 3.3 PI shall identify and monitor the situations below within which a conflict of interest may occur:
- a) PARTNERS INVESTMENTS will be making a financial gain or preventing a financial loss to the detriment of a Client;

- f) By failing to comply with procedures applicable to the processing of Clients' orders by preferring one Client over another in order to achieve a higher profit for the Company;
- g) By misusing information a Relevant Person has obtained in performing their job/function that does not involve provision of investment services, ancillary services or performance of investment activities.

- 3.5 A conflict of interests between Clients arises mainly when one Client is favored over another Client (e.g. in order to obtain a benefit in the form of money, goods or services, which is not a usual commission and which the Company or its Relevant Persons receive from a preferred Client or from a person other than the parties involved in the transaction).
- 3.6 Insider trading arises where a person possesses Confidential Information and uses that information to acquire or dispose of financial instruments to which that information relates for their own account or for the account of a third party directly or indirectly. - 3.7 Recommending another person to engage in insider trading or inducing another person to engage therein is considered to have occurred when a person possesses Confidential Information and, based on that information, the person recommends either another person to acquire or transfer financial instruments to which the information pertains or induces another person to execute such an acquisition or transfer, or recommends from the information that either another person cancel or modify an order related to the financial instrument to which the information pertains or induces another person to execute such a cancellation or modification.

ARTICLE 4 - MEASURES TO PREVENT/HANDLE A CONFLICT OF INTEREST

- 4.1 The Company has introduced adequate measures in its internal rules to prevent and minimize possible conflicts of interest and misuse of Confidential Information.

Organizational measures, access to information

The Company's organizational structure diversifies access by Relevant Persons to information. Other related internal corporate regulations governing procedures for providing investment and ancillary services and for performance of investment activities include measures to prevent a conflict of interest.

The Company has adopted and complies with the following conflict-of-interest management rules:

- "Firewalls", i.e. effective procedures to prevent or control the exchange of information between employed Relevant Persons engaged in activities that pose a risk of a conflict of interest, if the exchange of this information could harm the interests of one or more Clients. The Company's organizational structure is set up to comply with rules for the separation of incompatible functions, such as separating staff members and systemically preventing the unwanted flow of information between individual organizational units;
- Separate and independent supervision over employees whose main tasks involve performance of activities on behalf of Clients or provision of services to Clients and whose interests may collide, or over persons who otherwise promote various interests, including PI's interests, which may collide. PI has established organizational units, in its management and control system that separately and independently supervise compliance and have sufficient authority to identify conflicts of interest and enforce measures to eliminate and manage them;
- Elimination of remuneration cross-links, where PI has eliminated any direct connection between the remuneration of employees who primarily perform one activity and the remuneration of other employees and/or income generated by other employees who primarily perform another activity, where a conflict of interest may arise from the relationship between them;
- Arrangements that prevent or restrict any person from unduly influencing the manner in which an employee carries out investment or ancillary services or activities;
- Measures to prevent or control the simultaneous or successive participation of an employee in the performance of separate investment or ancillary services or activities, where such participation could harm the proper resolution of conflicts of interest.

Should the organizational or administrative measures adopted by PI to prevent adverse effects of conflicts of interest on Clients' interests be insufficient, with reasonable confidence, to prevent the risk of harm to a Client's interests, PI will clearly inform the Client about the general nature and/or source of the conflict of interest and measures adopted to mitigate such risks prior to execution of a transaction on their behalf.

The Client is entitled to decide, without unreasonable obstacles, whether their relationship with PI will continue or not.

- 4.2 Should any circumstance occur, despite measures aimed at prevention of conflicts of interest, where such measures do not suffice to prevent harm to a Client, the Company shall take the following actions:
- a) Acquaint the Client (on a durable medium) with the nature and sources of the conflict of interests before making a trade on their account, to such an extent that the Client can form a correct judgment and decide on the next course of action;
 - b) Always prioritize interests of the Client over the interests of the Company and its Relevant Persons;
 - c) Secure equal and fair treatment of all Clients where the established conflict of interest is between Clients.

4.3 Registration of Conflicts of Interest

The Company's employee shall notify the Compliance Department of the nature and source of any conflict of interest. Such notices serve to keep records of conflicts of interest.

The Compliance Department maintains and regularly updates records concerning the investment and ancillary services and investment activities performed by the Company or on its behalf within which either a conflict of interest has occurred and poses a risk of harm to the interests of one or several Clients, or a conflict of interest may occur. The Compliance Department submits annual reports covering the situations specified in this provision.

ARTICLE 5 - RULES APPLICABLE TO PERSONAL TRANSACTIONS

- 5.1. Relevant Persons either engaged in activities that may give rise to a conflict of interest or those with access to Confidential Information are prohibited from the following:
- a) Entering into a Personal Transaction unless:
 - those persons hold a prior written permit granted by the CEO to conclude such a transaction; of an open mutual fund, securities of European funds or foreign collective investment entities, in which the legislation of the Member States ensures an equivalent limitation and spread of risk when investing their assets, if the person on whose account the transactions are executed does not have responsibility in connection with the management of the open mutual fund, European fund or foreign collective investment entity.

- 5.4. Relevant Persons are obliged to comply with the restrictions and prohibitions regarding the execution of Personal Transactions and resulting from both these rules and legislation of general application. Failure to comply with these prohibitions and to fulfill obligations will be considered a particularly serious violation of work discipline and may result in immediate termination of employment.
- 5.5. Financial analysts and Relevant Persons implementing investment recommendations or carrying out investment surveys are prohibited from the following:
- Executing Personal Transactions or trading on the account of another person, including the Company, in financial instruments subject to investment research, or in related financial instruments where the financial analyst or another person has knowledge of the likely time frame or content of the investment research conducted, and this knowledge is not publicly available and cannot be easily deduced from publicly available information until the addressees of the investment research have had an available opportunity to act on them. This rule does not apply where they act in good faith as market operators within the normal job description of a market operator or where they execute an unsolicited order placed by a Client;
 - Disseminating investment recommendations or investment research within PI, whereby information firewalls exist between analysts and other employees of PI;

a target price. This rule does not apply to verification of compliance with the obligations under legislation of general application.

- 5.6. PI complies with requirements applicable to the pricing of an issue of financial instruments through established systems, controls and procedures for identifying conflicts of interest that arise in relation to possible undervaluation or overvaluation of the issue price or the involvement of Relevant Persons therein, as well as to prevent such conflicts of interest and for resolving them. Specifically, PI has implemented internal measures simultaneously to ensure the following:
- a) That pricing of an offering does not promote interests of other Clients or PI so that they may collide with the interests of the issuing Client;
 - b) Avoidance of any situation where the persons in PI responsible for providing services to Clients are directly involved in decision-making when consulting in corporate financing with regard to the setting of the issuing Client's price or the resolution thereof.
- 5.7. PI complies with specific requirements applicable to placement of issues. For this purpose, PI has implemented efficient internal measures to ensure that no persons responsible for provision of services to Clients would participate directly in decision-making in respect of recommendations to issuing Clients, thereby eliminating the risk of a conflict of interest. In particular, the following is not allowed when financial instruments are placed:
- a) Laddering, defined as placements made to induce a Client to pay disproportionately high fees for unrelated services provided by PI, such as disproportionately high fees or commissions, or to trade in disproportionately high volumes at the normal commission level as compensation for accepting placement of the issue. Similarly, the sale of comparable securities from one issuer (e.g. mortgage bonds of one bank) for five times higher fees than securities of another issuer (i.e. mortgage bonds of another bank) is prohibited;
 - b) Spinning, defined as placements for a top manager or managerial employee of an existing or potential issuing Client while considering future or already made allocations of corporate financing;
 - c) Placements made expressly or implicitly conditioned by PI receiving future orders or purchase of another services from PI by an investment Client or any entity whose managerial employee is the investor.
 - d) PI shall introduce an allocation policy for the placement of financial instruments establishing the procedure for the creation of allocation recommendations. The allocation

- 5.8. PI has a centralized procedure in place to identify all subscription and placement operations and records such information, including the date on which PI is informed of potential subscription and placement operations. Records of subscription and placement decisions adopted about individual operations are kept in order to provide a full control record of movements in Clients' accounts and instructions received by PI. Each Client shall receive a clear justification and record of the final allocation. PI will submit a full control record of all major steps taken in subscriptions and allocations at the NBS's request.
